

Lymphstar

Within the last decade, a new form of electronic instrument was found to assist and amplify the effects of manual lymph drainage, reducing the time and complexity of the therapy. Some therapists immediately noted that the therapy was 8 times faster with the device! This instrument is called the Lymphstar.

Lymph vessels can become clogged with protein deposits leading to sluggish flow (congestion) and impaired function. The causes of lymphatic congestion range from injuries and surgery, inactivity and poor diet, to emotional/ stress states, environmental toxins, hormone imbalance, and normal aging processes. When this state occurs the blockages cause a backup in the flow of lymphatic fluid, resulting in swelling or edema in the tissues and in various kinds of "symptoms." Consequently, toxic waste matter cannot effectively be released from the body, nor can the immune system function at optimum performance. The result is a wide range of dysfunction and disease. A therapeutic technique known as manual Lymphatic Drainage Massage was developed in Europe about 100 years ago. Through delicate massaging techniques, it was highly effective at reducing lymph-based disorders through the subsequent detoxification process.

The Lymphstar is excellent for chronic tissue edema and swelling just about anywhere in the body.

The science of modern physics and theories of quantum physics have opened the doors to serious scientific inquiry into the use of vibrational energies for health. The term "vibrational energy medicine" has been used as a new paradigm for healing. It applies to the Lymphstar Pro® and may be defined as an evolving viewpoint of health and illness that takes into account all the many forms and frequencies of vibrating or oscillating energy that constitute living things and indeed all matter.

Although medicine today uses high-energy modalities such as x-rays, ultrasound, and powerful lasers, it has not acknowledged more subtle energies, such as sound, harmonics, color, non-coherent light, and bio-energy as relevant to health. However, research has shown that cells emit and receive light and sound. Even the enzyme functions of the mitochondria of cells have been measured by a scientific instrument called the electro-spectrometer and shown to have a "peak spectral absorption wavelength" (or an exact light frequency). These and other new discoveries are consistently supporting the validity of the "vibrational energy medicine" paradigm.

The Lymphstar emits energetic "information" to the body via harmonics of sound and frequencies of light to the energy field of the cell. The instrument produces this "information" through the vehicle of "noble gas ionization." A mixture of xenon, argon, and krypton gases enclosed in glass is used for optimal results. The gases are electrically excited which then cause an energy field, or plasma, to emit from the glass tube onto the skin.

Ionized noble gas technology, in general, was found to be effective at re-polarizing the electrical charge of proteins circulating in the lymphatic fluid. This promoted a better flow to the system and drainage of tissues through natural channels. As randomized polarization makes it more likely that blockages will occur in the lymphatic system, re-polarization can be critical to the health of the individual. The Lymphstar has an optimal circuit design for this purpose. Thus, use of the Lymphstar results in an induction of helpful vibrational energies that encourage a healthier state in the person!

The Lymphstar is excellent for chronic tissue edema and swelling just about anywhere in the body.

website: <http://thamesfordchiropractic.com>